

System Architecture

Execution applies the routing command to move the UAV. The next camera frame is noted as a new sensor input, not a processing output back to aerial imagery.